- Title

Consultation for Sore Throat and Mild Cough

- Description

The patient presented with a chief complaint of feeling "period" for the past two days, accompanied by a sore throat. The patient also reported a mild cough, but denied any difficulty breathing.

- Overall Summary

The patient reports a two-day history of feeling "period", a sore throat, and a mild cough without dyspnea. The limited information suggests a possible upper respiratory infection, most likely viral, but further questioning is required to clarify the meaning of the term "period" in this context and to rule out other potential, although less likely, causes. A follow-up, potentially with a physical examination, would be beneficial to establish a more definitive diagnosis and treatment plan.
